VICE-PRESIDENT WILSON says he is overrun with letters approving his recent manifesto on political affairs. We do not doubt it. That manifesto stated, in brief, that the Republican party was going to the devil with rapid strides, and that something must be done, and done speedily, if it is to be saved.

MAJOR JNO. W. DUNHAM has been again confined to his room for several days from severe indisposition resulting from his wounds. The other members of the News staff being in attendance upon the sessions of the General Assembly, will account for whatever want of interest may be evidenced in these columns at present.

A SPECIAL to the Baltimore *Guar*ette, speaking of the difficulty Thursday between McLean, of Texas, and Butler, says:

"There was much excitement during the tilt between Butler and McLean, and Mr. Randall and others exerted themselves in the interest of peace, while a few extremists on the Radical side endeavored to make further trouble. The Radical party in Mr. McLean's to say what he did, but it is not in human nature to remain passive under the insults and blackguardism Butler casts upon the Southern people at every opportunity."

AND so, if we are to judge by information from Washington, Marshal Douglas, son of the late Stephen A. Douglas, and at present U. S. Marshal for the Western District of North Carolina, is likely to come to grief, or at least is compelled "to rise to explain" certain charges against him for a failure to report the expenditure of his District. He has been summoned to Washington to answer charges of extreme prodigality in his District. And thus the world moves onwards.

Somebody has figured out the interesting fact that the total amount of State, county, city and town taxes collected in the United States in 1870 was $280,591,000, which was about $7 a head for the entire population. The total amount of these taxes collected in 1860 was $4,186,000, which was about $3 a head for the entire population. It cost, therefore, more than twice as much to take care of a man in his State, county, and municipal relation in 1870 as it did ten years before. This does not include the Federal taxation.

The little spat between Speaker Blaine and Mr. Cox, of New York, on Tuesday, evidenced the fact that Mr. Blaine has lost whatever of softness he may have had in his disposition. His attack on the New York Representative was an outrageous violation of that dignity which belongs to his position. It is evident that Blaine has become considerably disgruntled at the tide that is so rapidly sweeping down his party, and the venting of his spleen is but a natural result. We were glad to see, however, that in both Messrs. Cox and Randall, whom he charged with resigning from the Rules Committee only for dramatic effect, he found men ready to meet his humor. Mr. Randall told the Speaker that he was his peer in all things, and would not be treated rudely by him.

COL. WM. CAMERON, of Petersburg, Va., in a communication to the Richmond Dispatch, tells of a historical incident in connection with Gen. Jackson that shows in what estimation that officer was held in 1861. Governor Letcher at that time appointed Lieut. Colonel T. J. Jackson to the 12th Virginia regiment, then stationed at Norfolk, Va. The officers of that regiment became indignant at the fact of having this officer from Lexington, who was unpopular with many who had attended his military school, placed over them, petitioned Governor Letcher to revoke his order and allow the regiment to select its own officers, which the Governor, after much persuasion, consented to do. The officers who had thus indignantly refused to allow Col. Jackson to become one of their number were doubtless afterwards surprised to behold in this man the immortal Stonewall Jackson.

It is a poor rule that does not work both ways, says the Richmond Enquirer, and the Radical majority in Congress may find this out to their cost before they have gone the full length of their rope; for although we may not be able to check them this session or curb their wild career, they will find that the people will avail themselves of the majority rule to rule them out at the next election—and we can wait until then. This is only another screw for the coffin of that party, which by seventy-seven will be as dead as a door nail.

Mr. Brown, of Kentucky, deserves the thanks of the country, and particularly of the South, for the handsome manner in which he administered a castigation to Ben Butler on Thursday, on the floor of the House. To tell Butler that he was guilty of lying, thieving and all manner of meanness, was nothing more than the country knew, but to have the daring to administer this thrashing when he knew he would be publicly censured therefor entitles Mr. Brown to the greatest measure of commendation at the hands of a people that have been so long outraged by such a fiend as Butler. All hail, say we, to Brown of Kentucky!

A crazy petition has been sent to Congress asking the abolition of the Senate because of its aristocratic institutions and that the offices of President and Vice-President be dispensed with—the country to be governed by a commission of seven representatives appointed by the House from that body. This precious document was written in English and German, and as it proposes female suffrage, is evidently the work of Susan B. Anthony or Mrs. Woodell. But it is a crazy petition, and upon his motion it was referred to the committee for the revision of the laws. Into what contempt the government framed by our father has fallen when such propositions can be seriously entertained!

Not long since a German was riding along Samson street, near Sacramento, when he heard a pistol shot behind him, heard the whizzing of a ball near him, and felt his hand shaken. He turned and saw a man with a revolver in his hand, and found a fresh bullet hole in his coat. "Did you shoot at me?" asked the German. "Yes," replied the other party, "that's my horse; it was stolen from me recently." "You must be mistaken," said the German, "I have owned the horse for three years." "Well," said the other, "when I come to look at him, I believe I am mistaken. Excuse me, sir, won't you take a drink?"

Decidedly the most gratifying peace of information which we have had to communicate to our readers for some days is the defeat of Carpenter for the Senate of Wisconsin. He has been one of the South's most violent persecutors, and is utterly unprincipled in all his policies, if not in personal character. He has not been defeated by a Democrat, but by a combination of Democrats and bolted Republicans on a much better man. This is glory enough for one day.—Petersburg Daily News.

The proceedings in the Pennsylvania Legislature the other day seems to have been as violent and lawless as in the Louisiana Legislature! The old and new have dispatched the military to squelch their leaders, and protect the speaker of the house in his lawful rights? Sheridan should be sent there immediately, and we it! Southern State and riotous Democrats instead of Radicals, he would be sent very rapidly.

The independent party which revolutionized California a few years ago, and more recently sent Gov. Newton Booth to the United States Senate, intends to keep up its organization. The State central committee, numbering about fifty members, met in San Francisco on Saturday, and resolved to hold a State convention early in the summer and put in nomination a full State and congressional ticket.

A peculiar little case is to be tried before the Chester county (Pa.) courts. A Mr. William Bonner put a notice on his property forbidding a neighbor, named Lewis H. Hammond, or his family from trespassing on his ground. Hammond retaliated by a similar prohibition of Bonner from his grounds, adding the words, "As I have only four turkeys left," and therein lies the alleged libel.

Congressman Ward, Republican, of the Second Illinois District, was defeated at the last election, and his seat was assigned to the Democratic party by a majority of two votes. Mr. Ward was not satisfied and demanded a re-count. His request was granted, and the reverse majority of two was swelled to two hundred. Mr. Ward doesn't care for many more countings.

Miss Lewis is said to be the lady James Gordon Bennett has gone to Europe to marry. Her father is a manufacturer in Manchester, and is reported to be very rich. The gossips have decided that the wedding will take place next month.

People are no longer allowed to whip their children or the children of others to death in New York. Brutality is classed among the luxuries and is not considered one of the necessities of life.

A Memphis editor upon being summoned home the other night was heard to remark as he took a hack for the train: "It's a boy he shall be called Andrew Johnson."

The new Emperor of China is only five years old. What a precious little China doll!
